Just Energy Proudly Partners With Habitat for Humanity to Provide Affordable Housing for Local Family in Need

Houston, TX, October 26, 2015: The Just Energy Foundation proudly teamed up with Habitat for Humanity on October 21 and 22 in support of a local Build Day project in the community of Houston, TX. Through two half-day building sessions, 18 Just Energy staff members volunteered in the construction to help build a safe and suitable home for a local family-in-need.

Habitat homes help families avoid making impossible choices between rent and other basic necessities by providing them with an affordable home, as well as no-interest mortgage payments. This enables low-income families to build assets, reduce their dependence on other forms of social assistance and ensure other important needs are met including childcare, transportation, groceries, medical and dental expenses and more.

“We are honored to provide further support to Habitat for Humanity through a local Build Day project,” says Deb Merrill, Just Energy’s co-Chief Executive Officer. “With our contribution to the organization, we can help ensure that some of our most vulnerable residents receive the assistance they need to secure a safe and nurturing environment. Supporting our communities is extremely important to us and our staff members also share our belief in leading change to help ensure our neighbors have a safe and healthy place to live.”

Together with more than 1,400 local affiliates in the United States and more than 70 national organizations around the world, the organization has helped more than 1 million families — representing 5 million people — improve their living conditions since 1976.

About Just Energy Foundation
